RESEARCH NOTES

CHINA TCM [0570.HK; HK$3.59; ADD] - China TCM's share price fell 6.5% yesterday, but we don't think it was triggered by any new company-specific or industry events after checking with various channels. We understand that investors may be concerned about 1) the new management team's execution; 2) potential weaker-than-expected 1H2019 results due to rising expenses; and 3) the policy of restricting TCM prescriptions by Western physicians. We believe the recent correction is overdone at the current valuation. We lower our 2019/20E earnings by 7%/9.5% to reflect higher-than-expected administrative expenses and depreciation cost from the TCM (Traditional Chinese Medicine) industrial parks and the 2 - 4% earnings' impact from restrictions on TCM prescriptions by Western physicians. We use a lower PER multiple to reflect slower profit growth. We cut our TP from HK$6.3 (historical average: 16x 2019E PER) to HK$4.2 (11x 2019E PER, 1sd below the historical average). We maintain our ADD rating, as the current valuation of 9.5x 2019E PER is lower than the historical average by more than 1sd. CNPGC, the major shareholder, increased its stake in May at HK$4.08 per share. (Analyst: Harry He)

SNIPPETS

CITIC SECURITIES [6030.HK; HK$15.24; ADD] – CITIC Securities released its June operating statistics. Net profit at the holding company level was RMB724m, up 45% MoM but down 9.3% YoY. For 1H19, net profit at the holding company level was RMB4.8bn, up 16% YoY. For the whole listco, we are projecting 18% earnings growth YoY in 2019. Therefore we believe the Company is still on track to meet our full-year forecast. We maintain our ADD rating and target price of HK$16.60 (1.11x 2019E PBR), as the official launch of the SSE STAR Market later this month should be a near-term catalyst. (Analyst: Wong Chi-man)

China Traditional Chinese Medicine Correction overdone

- China TCM's share price fell 6.5% yesterday, but we don't think it was triggered by any new company-specific or industry events after checking with various channels.
- We understand that investors may be concerned about 1) the new management team's execution; 2) potential weaker-than-expected 1H2019 results due to rising expenses; and 3) the policy of restricting TCM prescriptions by Western physicians. We believe the recent correction is overdone at the current valuation.
- We lower our 2019/20E earnings by 7%/9.5% to reflect higher-than-expected administrative expenses and depreciation cost from the TCM (Traditional Chinese Medicine) industrial parks and the 2–4% earnings' impact from restrictions on TCM prescriptions by Western physicians.
- We use a lower PER multiple to reflect slower profit growth. We cut our TP from HK$6.3 (historical average: 16x 2019E PER) to HK$4.2 (11x 2019E PER, 1sd below the historical average).
- We maintain our ADD rating, as the current valuation of 9.5x 2019E PER is lower than the historical average by more than 1sd. CNPGC, the major shareholder, increased its stake in May at HK$4.08 per share.

Restriction on TCM prescriptions by Western physicians has <4% impact on earnings

The drug monitoring list issued last week requires Western physicians to obtain qualifications certificates requiring 1–3 years' training before prescribing TCM. This policy will not impact the Company's CCMG and TCM decoction pieces business because Western physicians cannot issue such prescriptions. So only the Company's TCM finished drugs segment will be affected. This segment is expected to account for ~21% of 2019E total revenue. According to management, less than 20% of the TCM finished drugs are prescribed through Western physicians without sufficient training (i.e. >80% TCM finished drugs are sold through TCM prescriptions or the OTC channel). Therefore, we estimate only 2–4% of the Company's total earnings may be affected.

Earnings cut by 7%/9.5% for 2019/2020E

According to management, the investment in TCM industrial parks will lead to higher administrative expenses and depreciation cost in the next few years as they gradually commence operations. This will exert moderate pressure on profit in the near term, but it will enhance its market position and competitiveness in the medium term. We lower our 2019/20E earnings by 7%/9.5%, respectively, mainly to reflect such rising expenses and the 2–4% impact of the restriction on TCM prescriptions by Western physicians.

Historically low valuation

Currently, the Company is trading at only ~9.5/8.2/7.2x 2019/20/21E PER. This is a historically low valuation for the Company (Figure 1), and it is expected to deliver a 2018–2021E EPS CAGR of ~13.5%. We therefore believe concerns may be reflected in the share price. Catalysts include: 1) a further increase in the stake by CNPGC, which in an announcement in May expressed its intention to increase its stake in the next six months; 2) strong CCMG revenue growth in 1H2019, which will enhance investors' confidence in the Company's CCMG growth prospects; 3) advice by the Boston Consulting Group on corporate and management structure; and 4) gradually increasing confidence in the new management team. There is potential for a gradual re-rating.
